About the Canadian Toy Collectors' Society

For those collectors not familiar with the Canadian Toy Collectors' Society, it was founded in the late 1960's by three toy collectors, one of whom was John Hall, founder of Brooklin Models. The group grew from three to a dozen members who met informally in their basements to swap toys and tales. The Society has grown steadily over the years, and we accommodate nearly half of our membership at our monthly meetings which are held in a facility in northwest Toronto. In 1986 the Canadian Toy Collectors' Society was incorporated, under the laws of the province of Ontario, as a recognized non-profit organization.

Each year the C.T.C.S. commissions a LIMITED EDITION Brooklin Model. These models are much sought after by collectors and usually sell out well before their release date at Canada's Greatest Collector's Toy Show, which is sponsored by the Canadian Toy Collectors' Society. A percentage of the profit from the sale of these models goes towards the operation of the society, the enhancement of our collection, the operation of the virtual toy museum and in support of one of several charities, which are often in support of needy children.

We would like to thank you for supporting the Canadian Toy Collectors' Society through the purchase of these models.
